

JUVENILES TO HAVE BIG TIME AROUND TREES

School Exercises Today in District Include Treat of Candy and Nuts, and Lots of Pretty Things

There will be Christmas trees and exercises at the schools in this district today for the children of the lower grades. At the Central school special preparations have been made to give the little folks a most pleasant time.

The kindergarten children have a Christmas tree all their own on which presents have been placed for each other and for their relatives. All of these presents are the work of the little folks themselves and some of them are very pretty.

The big dolags will be in the Mexican children's room where there is a large Christmas tree beautifully decorated. About 100 pounds of candy has been put in sacks with nuts for these children and there is a large supply of oranges and apples on hand. The little Mexicans are taking great interest in the Christmas treat that is being arranged for them and several of them remained about the building last night after school hours to see what was going on and it was necessary for Truant Officer Riggelman to clear them out of the building. They have been told that Santa Claus will visit them in their room today and they are very anxious to see the good old man.

There will be a Christmas tree at Wintown in the school house and the high school girls have each sent a pretty hair ribbon for this tree to be given to the little Mexican girls of the school.

There will be a program of exercises with the Christmas tree and songs will be rendered by the children in both English and Spanish as will be in the program in the Mexican room at the Central school.

This evening the comedy 'Creatures of Impulse' will be given by a number of the high school scholars for the benefit of the athletic association. The play will be given in the large hall at the Central school building which will be curtained off for a stage. Following the play there will be a dance. Those giving the play have been rehearsing for some time.

PAINTING SWINDLE ; CASE ON TRIAL

TOURS, France, Dec. 22.—The trial of the self-styled Count and Countess de Gallyn, who are charged with having swindled the Duchess de Choiseul out of $200,000 in the sale of spurious paintings, was begun before Judge Roberts in the correctional court.

The complainant was the widow of Charles Hamilton Paine of Boston, and recently married the Duke de Choiseul, whose mother was Mary, daughter of Malcolm Forbes of Boston.

A number of letters, which the defendant claimed to have received from the complainant involved Alexander Tcherniédief, who recently was arrested in London, charged with conspiracy to blackmail the duchess. Tcherniédief was named as correspondent in a suit for divorce brought by the late John W. Hunt. D'Aulby, or Galligny, was subjected to a severe cross-examination by the judge concerning his various titles and an alleged newspaper campaign carried on by him in America in connection with the ownership of old pictures. The judge also sought to ascertain under what circumstances D'Aulby first met his wife.

The defendant declared the object of his life was built up a shroud of his life was to build up a reputation as a musical composer. He said he was the close friend of Prince Philip of Bourbon, who wanted to adopt him. He maintained that he had sold pictures, furniture and wine to Mrs. Paine at her insistence, and had never guaranteed the authenticity of the pictures.

She invaded his house, he added, and eventually their relations became very friendly.

They were broken off, however, for personal reasons. D'Aulby was handicapped in his battle with the judge because of his feeble command of French.

The defense scored a point in its attempt to prove that D'Aulby was a reputable artist, pointing out that a Paris newspaper gave a musicale consisting of D'Aulby's works.

Neither the duke nor the duchess de Choiseul was in court today, although they are in the city.
